Our November program:

First Flight: A Mother Hummingbird's Story

7:00 p.m. - Monday, Nov. 7th

When filmmakers Don and Noriko Carroll moved into their new home, it came with a sign on the back patio alerting them to a tiny hummingbird nest positioned on the clothesline between two clothespins. This endearing nature documentary follows the dedicated efforts of a tiny black-chinned hummingbird (nicknamed Honey) to lay, incubate, and hatch two tiny raisin-sized eggs and raise the fledgling chicks. Unique filmmaking shots follow the progress of the small family, including egg development, incubation, hatching, feedings, nest defense (including chasing away the Carrolls' cat), and first flight. Honey's protective and attentive mothering is enlivened through Noriko's informative and humorous narration and is accompanied by a pleasant musical soundtrack.
